Education is the most powerful weapon which you can use to change the world.

—Nelson Mandela
Anti-apartheid revolutionary, political leader, and philanthropist
If education is the most powerful weapon which you can use to change the world, art may be the most powerful means we have to move us emotionally, express ourselves, and make sense of what's happening around us. This issue of Caregiver Chronicles features both as we begin the month of September. This year we have a back-to-school season like no other we have experienced. We will be using new ways to educate ourselves as well as our children, and coping with a time that is not at all what we typically expect. Our rituals that mark the season are disrupted—whether shopping for school supplies, returning to classrooms, attending Fall festivals, or enjoying beloved spectator sports.

Caregiver education has been an area the Dane County Caregiver Program has been looking to expand and strengthen for some time. While we are still unable to gather in-person in most instances, there are other ways to access useful resources. It so happens that the tool selected for Dane County caregivers beginning in 2020 is an interactive online platform called Trualta. This rich resource can be tailored to the individual caregiver and it is brought free-of-charge to caregivers in Dane County by the Dane County Caregiver Program. We had hoped for a strong rollout of the program earlier this year, but COVID-19 and the immediate need to ensure physical safety and provide support and respite for caregivers and their care partners temporarily left less room to proceed. Beginning this month, the Area Agency on Aging’s new intern Sarah Schupbach will be onboarding caregivers and helping users get the most out of the program. Learn more about Trualta on pages 4 and 5.

September is also Falls Prevention Month. On Tuesday, September 22, Only Leaves Should Fall will be presented as a Facebook event featuring a live chat with Dr. Zorba Paster. Check out this important educational opportunity on page 7. If you are turning 64 this year the Dane County Elder Benefits Specialist Program can help you make informed choices about your Medicare options. See page 8 for online seminars planned in September and November. You may also want to save the date for the Domestic Violence in Later Life Virtual Conference on the first of October. Details are on page 11. Last, but not least, you will find a link to the Wisconsin Department of Health Services COVID-19 Individual Decision Tool to help Wisconsinites keep each other safe on page 9. As upcoming cooler weather keeps us indoors more often this information is more critical than ever.

On pages 3 and 11, you can explore art in the time of COVID-19 with visual art, poetry, and music. See page 10 for some free, unique classes on "Music, Travel, and Art" presented by the Family Caregiver Alliance National Center on Caregiving.

We likely have some time before us until we see what we perceive as normal in-person interactions again. If you are a caregiver who needs support and resources, please call or email today at the email and phone number below.

Art in the Time of COVID-19

IF COVID HAD A FACE

Madison artist, Cloo Stevenson, has always expressed herself in her artwork. When the pandemic came to the US she found herself unable to do other work until she dealt with feelings related to COVID-19.

“The houses represent us and it’s as though we fear each other. The highly-contagious ‘monster’ lives in others and possibly ourselves. We should feel safe in our houses but we don’t know where COVID-19 resides because we can’t see it.”

Stevenson’s next work is a mural of colorful birds.

PANDEMIC THROUGH A POETS EYES

Retired physician-turned poet Andrian Schnall is a long-distance grandparent who beautifully captured his experience of life in the times of COVID-19. Here’s part of a longer poem by Dr. Schnall:

. . . On the screen he shows me
The prints on his walls, the view from his window. He’s smart and silly and wonderful,
and suddenly says I love you.”

Read his full poem at the link below:

Staying safe during a pandemic involves social distancing measures that keep traditional support groups, classes, and conferences from proceeding as usual, yet the need for caregiver education and training is greater than ever. To address the need for safety and ease of access, Dane County’s Caring for Caregivers Program provides Trualta (see page 5), an online platform and educational tool available free to caregivers of adults with Alzheimer’s or dementia; frail older adults age 60 plus; grandparents and other relative caregivers age 55 plus raising a relative child age 18 or under; and parents age 55 plus providing life-long care to a severely-disabled adult child age 19-59. With Trualta, caregivers develop skills and find local resources from the comfort and safety of home.

Unlike sitting down to “Google” a caregiving topic and attempting to sift through piles of results, when you access Trualta you find clearly organized, evidence-based and caregiver-tested information you can trust. You gain unlimited access to articles, videos, audio lessons, and printable tip sheets to build your confidence and improve your caregiving skills. Important information on self-care helps you maintain your own wellbeing.

Trualta can help you handle challenging care situations including those related to personal care, safety, brain health, caregiving during the COVID-19 pandemic and more. You will have access to trainings from world-renowned dementia care expert Teepa Snow who teaches skills and techniques to improve your ability to care for someone with dementia. The popular Alzheimer’s Music Connect can also be accessed through the platform, and has been shown to improve the mood and behavior of persons with dementia. You can learn about strokes and how they affect thinking, movement, and communication. Providing hands-on care such as shaving, showering, and oral care are also covered. Topics like Keep Your Cool, Caregiver Guilt, and Balancing Work and Caregiving provide helpful tips to make caregiving more sustainable. New content is being added regularly and we look forward to information for grandparents raising grandchildren, more on chronic conditions, and recreational activities.

On-demand learning allows you to choose what, when, and how you learn. Trualta’s lessons vary from five minutes to two hours, so you can choose what you want to learn (accessible by computer, tablet or smart phone) based on the time you have available. Once you create your Trualta account, you will continue to have access to the materials for the entire year.

The Dane County Caregiver Program is also introducing our new intern, Sarah Schupbach. Sarah is a Master’s of Social Work student at Aurora University and will be coordinating Trualta onboarding for the Dane County Caregiver Program. She can help you get started, make recommendations on training topics, guide you to local resources, and answer your questions. Contact Sarah at schupbach.sarah@countyofdane.com to get started.

Monthly MIPPA Moment: Ovarian and Prostate Cancer Awareness

MIPPA (Medicare Improvements for Patients and Providers Act) has a goal of educating older adults on Medicare’s cost-saving benefits & preventive services.

September is National Ovarian and Prostate Cancer Awareness Month. Among other preventive services, Medicare Part B (Medical Insurance) covers pelvic exams for females once every 24 months. Medicare Part B also covers some of the digital prostate exams for males and all of a prostate specific antigen (PSA) blood test once every 12 months for men over 50 (beginning the day after their 50th birthday) if you get the test from a provider who accepts Medicare assignment.

It’s important for beneficiaries to remain vigilant with their health, thus, it is important to review both coverage and frequency of use criteria regularly. To stay on top of your preventive services, check the CMS publication on preventive services, and the list and schedule of preventive services here.

For more information on MIPPA Programs call MIPPA Program Specialist Leilani Amundson at 608-240-7458.

The Wisconsin Department of Health Services has launched a COVID-19 Individual Decision Tool to help Wisconsinites keep each other safe. Wisconsin is seeing significant COVID-19 activity, and data show that this is at least partly due to activities like gatherings. Data obtained from contact tracing calls indicate that the percent of people with confirmed cases of COVID-19 who reported attending a gathering, party, or other meetup with people outside their home in the past two weeks grew from 7% of cases in May to 21% of cases in June and 20% of cases in July.

DHS urges residents to consider how individual actions like the decision to attend a gathering may contribute to community spread. To support residents in making safer choices, DHS has launched a new Decision Tool for Individuals and Families.

“The safest choices are to stay home and wear a face covering when you are out,” said Governor Tony Evers. “At the same time, we know from the data that people are choosing to participate in activities that put themselves and others at risk, and we hope this tool will assist people in making safe choices. I understand the pull to see family and do the activities we love to do, but we also need to protect ourselves and each other as much as possible.”

This is particularly important information to those providing care for older adults and other vulnerable people. The tool can help you make the most informed possible decisions.

COVID-19 is still spreading across Wisconsin communities.
We can all do our part to protect our communities by limiting contact with others and avoiding nonessential trips out in the community as much as possible.
